

The airport-level network is an aggregated visualization of alerted flight-level aircraft-rotation edges. Airports are used only for spatial aggregation; the prediction model and multi-hop traversal operate on individual flight vertices.